NAMES, OCCUPATIONS AND RESIDENCES.

COMPILED AND PUBLISHED BY
HENRY PAYSON.

Williamsburgh:
L. DARBEE & SON, PRINTERS, GAZETTE OFFICE,
No. 146 Fourth Street, corner of South First.

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE Compiler has deemed it advisable to insert in the Directory, for the present year, his address "to the public," contained in the Directory for the last year. In addition to which, he would simply remark, that he has adopted measures for securing a greater degree of correctness, than has heretofore been attained by him; in consequence of which, he hopes to secure an increased patronage. This, however, will be his last effort of the kind, unless he can continue it without pecuniary loss.

A DESIRE to be in some way useful to his fellow-citizens, together with the hope of receiving something like a moderate pecuniary compensation for his services, has induced the undersigned to make a second attempt to furnish a Directory for Williamsburgh. Past experience, while it has enabled the Compiler to avoid some of those errors which are the natural consequence of inexperience, has also taught him not to expect perfect accuracy in a work of this kind, in which several persons must necessarily be employed, and to some of whom the task is new.

Of the necessity of a Directory for any place containing a population of 15,000,* no one will doubt; it is confidently expected, therefore, that all those who have the welfare of our village at heart, will so patronize the work this year, as to enable some one hereafter to expend a greater amount of money and labor, for the purpose of making the work as perfect as possible than the patronage of the past year would warrant.

That the "WILLIAMSBURGH DIRECTORY" for 1849–50, will be found more correct than that of the past year, and consequently more deserving of the approbation and patronage of the community, is the belief of the Compiler,

*Now 20,000 probably.

HENRY PAYSON.

WILLIAMSBURGH DIRECTORY,

FOR 1849—50.

NOTE.—Names having a * are the names of colored people. Abbreviations.—h. stands for house, n. for near, c. for corner, op. for opposite, b. for between.

The order in which the numbering of houses is arranged, is as follows, viz.: On all the streets running North and South, the numbering commences at the Brooklyn line. On those running East and West, the numbering in the First and Second Districts, commences at the East River and ends at Union Avenue, excepting Grand and North 2d streets, on which the numbering continues on to Bushwick Avenue. The numbering on all the other streets in the Third District, running East and West, commences at Union Avenue.

The names in CAPITALS are the names of those, who have either subscribed for a Directory, or inserted an Advertisement.

CYPRESS HILL CEMETERY,

Office, 262 BROADWAY, New-York.

THIS NEW AND BEAUTIFUL CEMETERY

Is now complete in all its arrangements, and is fully ready to accommodate those who wish to purchase lots, or bury their friends—and burials are now taking place there every day. By a recent Act of the Legislature, the CYPRESS HILL has become, it is believed,

THE LARGEST CEMETERY IN THE COUNTRY,

And the best Artists and Workmen have been employed to lay out the Grounds and embellish them with taste and beauty. A more picturesque and beautiful tract of Ground than this Cemetery, it is believed, cannot be found.

A high range of Hills runs through it, commanding the most extentensive view of the Ocean, Brooklyn, Williamsburgh and New York; and from an Observatory, recently built, on one of the highest hills, can be seen one of the most beautiful and wide-spread Panoramas of Ocean, Mountain, Field, Forest, Village and City on this Continent.

The Grounds contain about 150 acres of heavy Forest, 100 of Shrubbery, a large Lawn planted with trees and flowers, and a great number of Cold Spring Lakes. The whole Cemetery will be RICHLY EMBELLISHED in the style of a Landscape Garden, with fine Carriage Roads running through its whole extent. No expense or trouble will be spared in making the CYPRESS HILL the most beautiful Cemetery in this country.

Its Location is on the north side of the Brooklyn and Jamaica Turnpike, near the Long Island Railroad, less than 6 miles from Brooklyn, and about 4 miles from Williamsburgh.

It was the design of the Trustees in locating the CEMETERY, not only to select the most beautiful and appropriate grounds, but to choose such as would be easy of access, and still far enough away from all the changes and improvements of our large and rapidly extending towns. It was their determination also, to locate the CEMETERY where the Grounds could be purchased at such rates as to exclude no one from participating in the advantages that have hitherto been enjoyed only by incurring large expenses. These objects are accomplished, and both poor and rich can now find a BURIAL PLACE FOR THEIR DEAD, beautiful in location, and easy of access, at a very moderate price.

Lots containing 400 square feet can be purchased for the low sum of $35 on the Paths, and for $50 on the broad Avenues; and in quantities of 4 lots for $32 50 each; and of 10 for $30 each (half of the lots being on Paths, and half on the Avenues).

Single Graves of 32 square feet, with the opening and closing of the same can be had for $6, and for children $4.

The use of a large Receiving Tomb can also be had for 30 days, free of charge.

An experienced and attentive Sexton is on the Grounds with a hearse, ready to meet all processions at the Railroad, and carry the body to the grave.

From Brooklyn the cars run four times a day; and for the low price of $10 an extra train will go out to the CEMETERY and back, carrying 60 persons, on any day or hour.

From Williamsburgh two routes to the CEMETERY can be taken—one from Peck Slip, by the way of South Sixth st.; and another from Grand and Houston Street Ferries, by way of the Williamsburgh and Jamaica Turnpike.

Inquiries may be made, or notices of Interments left, at the OFFICE OF THE CEMETERY, 262 Broadway, or with WAR! WAR! WAR!

With the Camphene Dealers!

THE CAMPHENE REGULATOR,

WITH his standard in his hand, is in the battlefield at the head of his forces, and his name is "Rough and Ready," and never surrenders, nor lowers his peak to any mortal man.

THE BATTLE IS WON!

The Subscriber, the original Light House Manufacturer, begs leave respectfully to state to the public, that he lives under the noble standard of the star-spangled banner, and in triumph it shall wave. He has it in his power to offer greater inducements than any establishment in the United States, in the art of manufacturing his Camphene, &c., and is prepared to supply the public with the purest article of

Camphene, Burning Fluid, Spirit Gas, &c.,

FREE FROM ALL SMELL.

From the fact of the general and peculiar facilities he possesses, both as regards machinery and the selection of the finest machinery and the selection of the finest material in the market, and having been upwards of twenty years in the business, and by his inventions and experiments is enabled to give to his fellow-citizens, and public generally, the Best and the Cheapest Artificial Light in the world.

Orders to be left at the Office of the Subscriber,

CAMBRIAN PLACE, WILLIAMSBURGH, L. I.,
And at his Store, No. 30 City Hall Place, New York.

Where is kept on hand, an extensive assortment of LAMPS for Camphene and Spirit Gas, &c.; also, OIL and HALL LAMPS, LANTHORNS, GIRANDOLES, &c.; together with a stock of ASTRAL and SOLAR GLOBES, CHIMNEYS, CAMPHENE GLASSES, &c. WICKS of all kinds, and the genuine article of SPIRIT GAS, ALCOHOL, SPIRITS OF TURPENTINE, TAR, PITCH and ROSIN, sold wholesale and retail at the lowest market price, and the original LIGHT-HOUSE MINIATURE SOLAR LAMPS, to burn the cheapest kind of Oil, or any kind of Grease, Fat or Tallow, and if families only try them, they will recommend themselves. Give Cicero of the 19th century his due.

Ladies who wish to preserve their eye-sight to good old age, would do well to call and examine the several lights. They are the best lights ever used in families, as there is no grease, smoke, or disagreeable smell, and cheaper than any other light now in use.

All kinds of Lamps fitted for Churches, Hotels, Rail-Road Cars, Steamboats, Ships, Coaches, &c. Lamps of every description refinished and repaired, and altered to burn gas or oil, at the shortest notice.

Wagons and Carts will deliver all orders free from charge. All orders left at Peck-Slip Ferry, and at the Waverly House, corner of Atlantic and Furman streets, Brooklyn, will be promptly attended to.

DR TOWNSEND'S

OFFICE MANUFACTORY

TRICKS OF QUACKS.

Let every body read this carefully.

THERE is a Sarsaparilla for sale in the different towns called old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla. It is advertised as the original, &c. This is a notorious falsehood. Dr. Townsend has expended over $200,000 the last eight years in advertising his Sarsaparilla, which has obtained a character and reputation throughout the United States and a greater part of the world—the sale being enormous.

This excited the cupidity of certain unprincipled men, and an old man who has been engaged in peddling cheap publications for a number of years. This man's name is Jacob Townsend. He applied to a number of men to get employment, or to sell the use of his name to put up Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, stating the large sales and sums we had expended in advertising as an inducement to embark in the business. Among others he applied to Charles Watrous, Esq. Editor of the Jamaica Farmer, who scorned such a proposition. Mr. H. G. ANDREWS, formerly one of the Proprietors of McALISTER'S OINTMENT, RALPH POMEROY, formerly Cashier and Financier of the broken Shin Plaster Bank, at Bellville, New Jersey, JOHN SKILLMAN, and WM. THOMPSON, under the name of THOMPSON, SKILLMAN & Co., have employed this old man, and agreed, as we understand, to pay him seven dollars per week, for the use of his name. These men have been insulting and libelling us in all possible forms in hopes we would notice them, and thus bring them and their decoction into market. Let the public decide upon the course of these honest and honorable men.

COMPOUND EXTRACT OF

SARSAPARILLA.

Wonder and Blessing of the Age.

The most extraordinary Medicine in the World.

This Extract is put up in Quart Bottles: it is six times cheaper, pleasanter, and warranted superior to any sold. It cures without vomiting, purging, sickening, or debilitating the Patient.

The great beauty and superiority of this Sarsaparilla over all other medicines is, that while it eradicates the disease, it invigorates the body. It is one of the very best

SPRING AND SUMMER MEDICINES

Ever known; it not only purifies the whole system, and strengthens the person, but it creates new, pure and rich blood: a power possessed by no other medicine. And in this lies the grand secret of its wonderful success. It has performed within the last five years, more than 100,000 cures of severe cases of disease; at least 15,000 were considered incurable. It has saved the lives of more than 5,000 children during the two past seasons.

10,000 cases of General Debility and want of Nervous Energy.

Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla invigorates the whole system permanently. To those who have lost their muscular energy by the effects of medicine or indiscretion committed in youth, or the excessive indulgence of the passions, and brought on a general physical prostration of the nervous system, lassitude, want of ambition, fainting sensations, premature decay and decline, hastening towards that fatal disease, Consumption, can be entirely restored by this pleasant remedy. This Sarsaparilla is far superior to any

Invigorating Cordial,

As it renews and invigorates the system, gives activity to the limbs, and strength to the muscular system, in a most extraordinary degree.

Consumption Cured.

Cleanse and Strengthen. Consumption can be cured. Bronchitis Consumption, Liver Complaint, Colds, Catarrh, Coughs, Asthma, Spitting of Blood, Soreness in the Chest, Hectic Flush, Night Sweats, Difficult or Profuse Expectoration, Pain in the Side, &c., have been, and can be cured.

SPITTING BLOOD.

New York, April 28, 1847.

DR. TOWNSEND—I verily believe that your Sarsaparilla has been the means, through Providence, of saving my life. I have for several years had a bad Cough. It became worse and worse. At last I raised large quantities of blood, had night Sweats, and was greatly debilitated and reduced, and did not expect to live. I have only used your Sarsaparilla a short time, and there has a wonderful change been wrought in me. I am now able to walk all over the city. I raise no blood, and my cough has left me. You can well imagine that I am thankful for these results.

Your obedient servant,

WILLIAM RUSSELL, 65 Catharine street.

RHEUMATISM.

This is only one of more than four thousand cases of Rheumatism that Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has cured. The most severe and chronic cases are weekly eradicated by its extraordinary virtues.

James Cummings, Esq., one of the assistants in the Lunatic Asylum, Blackwell's Island, is the gentleman spoken of in the following letter:—

Blackwell's Island, Sept. 14, 1847.

DR. TOWNSEND—Dear Sir: I have suffered terribly for nine years with the Rheumatism; considerable of the time I could not eat, sleep or walk. I had the utmost distressing pains, and my limbs were terribly swollen. I have used four bottles of your Sarsaparilla, and they have done me more than one thousand dollars worth of good. I am so much better—indeed, I am entirely relieved. You are at liberty to use this for the benefit of the afflicted.

Yours, respectfully,

JAMES CUMMINGS.

Fits! Fits!! Fits!!!

Dr. Townsend, not having tested his Sarsaparilla in cases of Fits, of course, never recommended it, and was surprised to receive the following, from an intelligent and respectable Farmer in Westchester County:—

Fordham, August 13th, 1847.

Dr. Townsend—Dear Sir: I have a little girl seven years of age, who has been several years afflicted with Fits; we tried almost everything for her, but without success; at last, although we could find no recommendation in our circulars for cases like hers, we thought, as she was in very delicate health, we would give her some of your Sarsaparilla, and are very glad we did, for it not only restored her strength, but she has had no return of the Fits, to our great pleasure and surprise. She is fast becoming rugged and hearty, for which we feel grateful.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN BUTLER, Jr.

Female Medicine.

Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla is a sovereign and speedy cure for Incipient Consumption, Barrenness, Prolapsus Uteri, or Falling of the Womb, Costiveness, Piles, Leucorrhœa, or Whites, obstructed or difficult Menstruation, Incontinence of Urine, or involuntary discharge thereof, and for the general prostration of the system—no matter whether the result of inherent cause or causes, produced by irregularity, illness or accident. Nothing can be more surprising than its invigorating effects on the human frame. Persons all weakness and lassitude, from taking it, at once become robust and full of energy under its influence. It immediately counteracts the nervelessness of the female frame, which is the great cause of Barrenness. It will not be expected of us, in cases of so delicate a nature, to exhibit certificates of cures performed, but we can assure the afflicted, that hundreds of cases have been reported to us. Thousands of cases where families have been without children, after using a few bottles of this invaluable medicine, have been blessed with fine, healthy offsprings.

Great Blessing to Mothers and Children.

It is the safest and most effectual medicine for purifying the system, and relieving the sufferings attendant upon child-birth ever discovered. It strengthens both the mother and child, prevents pain and disease, increases and enriches the food, those who have used it, think it is indispensable. It is highly useful, both before and after confinement, as it prevents diseases attendant upon childbirth—in Costiveness, Piles, Cramps, Swelling of the Feet, Despondency, Heartburn, Vomiting, Pain in the Back and Loins, False Pains, Hemorrhage, and in regulating the secretions and equalizing the circulation it has no equal. The great beauty of this medicine is, it is always safe, and the most delicate use it most successfully; very few cases require any other medicine, in some a little Castor Oil, or Magnesia, is useful. Exercise in the open air, and light food with this medicine, will always ensure a safe and easy confinement.

Scrofula Cured.

This certificate conclusively proves that this Sarsaparilla has perfect control over the most obstinate diseases of the Blood. Three persons cured in one house is unprecedented.

Three Children.

Dr. Townsend—Dear Sir: I have the pleasure to inform you that three of my children have been cured of the Scrofula by the use of your excellent medicine. They were afflicted very severely with bad Sores; have taken only four bottles; it took them away, for which, I feel myself under great obligation.

Yours, respectfully,
ISAAC W. CRAIN, 106 Wooster st.

Opinions of Physicians.

Dr. Townsend is almost daily receiving orders from Physicians in different parts of the Union.

This is to certify that we, the undersigned Physicians of the City of Albany, have, in numerous cases, prescribed Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, and believe it to be one of the most valuable preparations in the market.

CAUTION.

Owing to the great success and immense sale of Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, a number of men who were formerly our Agents, have commenced making Sarsaparilla Extracts, Elixirs, Bitters, Extracts of Yellow Dock, &c. They generally put it up in the same shaped bottles, and some of them have stole and copied our advertisements—they are only worthless imitations and should be avoided.

PHRENOLOGY AND PHYSIOLOGY.

PHRENOLOGY, PHYSIOLOGY, AND REFORM.

MAN is composed of, and exists by the union of various functions of body and mind. His happiness is perfected in proportion as these functions act harmoniously with each other. In order, therefore, to enjoy to the full extent of his capacity, he must obey the laws of his being. Physiology acquaints us with the laws, functions, and conditions of the body; hence this knowledge is absolutely necessary, that he may be enabled to comply with them. Phrenology teaches the laws and elements of the mind, and as their proper action and direction are of vital importance, we see the necessity of understanding its action, and complying with its teachings. As mind and body are inseparably connected in this life, and the healthy and happy condition of the one is dependent on that of the other, they should be studied conjointly; and we could then improve and perfect ourselves by securing the legitimate use of our mental and physical powers.

The ultimate design of all the reforms of the day is to remove existing evils, to improve the condition of man, and to prepare him for the perfect enjoyment of all the elements of his nature. But in order to accomplish this most important result, man's capacities, natural wants, and legitimate desires must be correctly understood. These Physiology and Phrenology explain; and all reformers labor under great disadvantages if unacquainted with their teachings. They can see the evils of society and their consequences without this knowledge, but not their cause, origin, and remedy.

For instance, intemperance, licentiousness, war, and slavery are all regarded by great and good men as so many curses to the human race; and long and arduous has been the struggle of those who have the best interests of humanity at heart, to remove them, but still they exist. The great question now arises, How are they to be removed, and the world reformed? The religionist will say, Believe on Jesus Christ. We reply, that some, if not all these evils are prevalent to a greater or less extent in all the churches devoted to his name, and appear in many to be increasing rather than diminishing. To believe on him will do very much; but in connection with this faith, add a knowledge of and obedience to nature's laws, and let us train our children in the way they should go, and these curses of the human race will soon cease to mar our happiness and perfection.

These evils exist, not as a necessary result of laws of our nature, but from an ignorance of them, and from the unequal action, wrong direction, excessive exercise, and perversion of the various functions of which we are composed, the true nature of which Physiology and Phrenology explain, and the promulgators of them labor to enforce.

A tendency to these evils in some cases is hereditary; consequently it is our duty to counteract it by reforming ourselves as parents; but the greatest of all causes exists in the wrong motives brought to bear on the minds of children. Intemperance begins in the wrong feeding of children; and we must commence here to remove the evil. War has its origin in the wrong government of children. So slavery and licentiousness arise from the wrong direction of the youthful mind, and in its imperfect development. The training of children is at the very foundation of society. As is their training so is society. Parents, would you leave the best legacy possible to society, train your children physically, mentally, and morally. Reformers, would you labor not in vain, and accomplish the most ardent desires of your mind, commence at the beginning, lay a good foundation, and act in harmony with the laws and elements of the human mind, for they are the same in nature and function, whether perverted or undeveloped.

All excesses and perversions of body and mind are contrary to the teachings of these sciences, but they inculcate that harmony, balance, and full development are necessary to happiness and perfection.

PHRENOLOGICAL CATECHISM.

What faculties, when perverted, most degrade the mind and destroy manhood—sap the foundation of the constitution—debilitate both mind and body—destroy self-respect, and lower the standard of virtue?

What faculties, perverted, does it cost more to gratify than all the preaching of the gospel, education of the young, building of colleges, and collecting of libraries and natural curiosities?

What faculties, having the ascendency, are deaf to reason and seek gratification regardless of consequences?

What group of faculties, properly exercised, produce that which cannot be bought or sold, weighed or measured, seen or handled, and that which increases in value with the increase of age and use?

What faculty is wanting in children who say "I can't" when asked by their parents to do something?

What faculty has more medical properties connected with its full action than exists in the saddle-bags of the doctor?

What faculty, when large, brightens every object on which we look?

What faculty, when large, makes an old man young, and when small, makes a young man old?

Gall pointed out, in one man, without knowing for what he was confined, a large organ of Constructiveness, and a head so well organized that he several times lamented his fate. This was the tailor Maschke, who was imprisoned for counterfeiting the coin. He possessed great mechanical skill, and much kindness of disposition.

DEFINITION OF THE PHRENOLOGICAL ORGAN

BY L. N. FOWLER.

NUMBERING AND EXPLANATION OF THE ORGANS.

Scale from 1 to 7.—1 very small; 2 small; 3 moderate; 4 average; 5 full; 6 large; 7 very large.

The sign + (plus or more), means that the organ is a little larger than the figure marked. The sign — (minus or less) means that the organ is less than the figure marked. This mark ⌒ over a figure signifies to cultivate. This mark ⌣ under a figure signifies to restrain and prudently exercise. This mark —— under an organ signifies its great activity, when compared with other organs.

MEASUREMENTS OF THE BRAIN IN INCHES AND EIGHTHS.

SIZE OF THE BRAIN, With the Tape.—Circumference around the centre—average of a full-grown Male, 22—Female, 21½ inches.

MENTAL OR NERVOUS SYSTEM—Comprising the Brain and Nerves.
THORACIC—Embracing the Heart, Lungs, and their functions.
ABDOMINAL—Comprising all the organs and functions below the diaphragm: Digestion, Secretion, Absorption, Generation.
MOTIVE—Embracing the Osseous and Muscular Systems, as applied to Locomotion.

DEFINITION OF THE DOMESTIC AND SOCIAL ORGANS.

AMATIVENESS—Sexual and Connubial Love.
PHILOPROGENITIVENESS—Parental Love; Fondness for Children; Love of Pets, or tender and dependent objects.
ADHESIVENESS—Attachment; Love of Family; Gregariousness; Friendship; Sociability; Love of Company.
MARRIAGE—Desire to Pair; Union for Life; Constant Companionship.
INHABITIVENESS—Love of Home; Attachment to Place, as such.
CONTINUITY—Application; Connectedness of Thought and Feeling; Suspension of a Crisis of the Mind.

SELFISH OR PROTECTIVE PROPENSITIES.

MOTION—Perception of and desire for Muscular Action.
VITATIVENESS—Desire to Exist.
COMBATIVENESS—To Defend; Overcome; Protect; Resist; Oppose; Contend; Contradict.
DESTRUCTIVENESS—Executiveness; Force; Energy; Thoroughness; Extermination; Hate.
ALIMENTIVENESS—Appetite; Sense of Hunger.
ACQUISITIVENESS—Regard for Property; Desire to Accumulate; Provide for the Future.
SECRETIVENESS—Policy; Management; Tact; Evasion; Non-committal; Shyness; Reserve; Hiding away Things.
BIBATIVENESS—Love of water; Desire to Drink.
CAUTIOUSNESS—Watchfulness; Fear; Restraint; Solicitude; Apprehension; Timidity; Prudence; Provision against Danger.

SELFISH SENTIMENTS, OR ASPIRING, GOVERNING GROUP.

APPROBATIVENESS—Sense of Character; Desire to Excel; Love of Praise; Ambition; Affability; Politeness; Familiarity; Sensitiveness; Display; Show; Parade; Pomp.
SELF-ESTEEM—Self-appreciation; Pride; Desire to Command; to Dictate; take the lead; Love of Liberty; Independence; Self-reliance.
FIRMNESS—Stability; Perseverance; Will; Decision; Positiveness; Singleness of Purpose.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS SENTIMENTS.

CONSCIENTIOUSNESS—Justice; Equity; Duty to God; to Man; Obligation; Integrity; Truthfulness; Faithfulness; Gratitude.
CIRCUMSPECTION—Consistency; Uniformity; Balance.
HOPE—Anticipation; Sense of the Future; Cheerfulness; Buoyancy; Enterprise.
MARVELLOUSNESS or SPIRITUALITY—Faith; Belief; Confidence in and Perception of the Spiritual; Love of the New; Novel; Wonderful.
VENERATION—Adoration; Sense of Holiness and Superiority; Deference; Respect; Dependence.
BENEVOLENCE—Liberality; Charity; Generosity; Sympathy; Tenderness; Kindness; Humanity.

PERFECTIVE SENTIMENTS.

CONSTRUCTIVENESS—Contrivance; Ingenuity; Mechanism.
IDEALITY—Sense of Beauty; Refinement; Perfection; Poetry; Imagery; Ability to Magnify and Embellish.
SUBLIMITY—Love of the Grand, Sublime, Magnificent, Vast, Terrific, Wild and Romantic.
IMITATION—Inclination to Copy; Pattern; Imitate; Conform; Mimic.

MIRTHFULNESS—Wit; Fun; Glee; Gayety; Sense of the Ludicrous, Absurd.
AGREEABLENESS—Playful; Youthful; Pliable; Suavity.

INTELLECTUAL FACULTIES.

PERCEPTIVE AND KNOWING FACULTIES.

INDIVIDUALITY—Observation; Desire to See and Identify.
FORM—Perception and Recollection of Shape, Outline, and Countenance.
SIZE—Judgment of Size, Proportion, Parallels, Distance, and Perpendicularity.
WEIGHT—Perception of Gravity; Ability to ride, walk, shoot, balance, and direct Muscular Action, and Motion in Machinery.
COLOR—Perception and Judgment of Colors.
ORDER—Method; System; Arrangement; Neatness.
CALCULATION—Quickness and Facility in Reckoning Numbers, and understanding them.
LOCALITY—Knowledge of Location, and Points of Compass.
EVENTUALITY—Memory of Facts, Events, Statistics, Occurrences, Past, Present.
TIME—Memory of time; When; How long.
TUNE—Tone; Sense of Sound: Modulation; Harmony in Melody.
LANGUAGE—Memory and Command of Words; Ability to Talk.

REASONING ORGANS.

CAUSALITY—Searches for Causes, and asks Why; Sees the Connection between Cause and Effect; Originality and Power of abstract Thought; Disposition to Study complicated Subjects.
COMPARISON—Association; Illustration; Simile.
INTUITION—Perception of Character, Motive, Truth Intuitively.

On the night of April 30th, 1833, Mr. Hoskins, one of the guards of the Connecticut State Prison, was murdered by four convicts, in an attempt to escape.

"It is a little remarkable," says Dr. Brigham, in a letter to Mr. Capen, "that, when I visited the prison with Dr. Spurzheim, he pointed out the two leaders of this conspiracy and murder as very bad criminals. The negro Cæsar Reynolds, who, from the testimony, it appears, actually committed the murder, he noticed when at some distance, and remarked, 'that negro interests me much;' and begged the liberty of examining his head more minutely. After he had done so, he said that he had the best formation, intellectually, of any negro he ever saw, (and he is far superior to most blacks;) but stated that he was a wretched and dangerous man, capable of doing any wickedness, and one that would persevere in iniquity. The warden," continues Dr. Brigham, "has repeatedly assured me that Dr. S. gave the character of many of the criminals, especially of the noted ones, as correctly as he himself could, who had long known them."—Biography of Spurzheim, by Nahum Capen, p. 110.

When George Bidder, the celebrated calculator, went to Edinburgh, Mr. Moir, surgeon, waited on Mr. Combe, accompanied by three boys, of nearly equal age, and said, "One of these is George Bidder; can you tell which is he, by his head?" Mr. Combe examined the boys, and remarked that the first one could not be Bidder, as in him the organ of Number was deficient; that the second should have considerable powers of calculation; but that the third should be Bidder, as in him the organ was remarkably developed. Mr. Moir assured Mr. Combe that he was right. The first was his own son, to whom instruction seemed unable to impart any arithmetical knowledge; the second was selected as the most expert calculator in a school in Edinburgh. The other was Bidder himself.—Combe's Lectures on Phrenology, p. 245.

WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT.

The head of Mr. Bryant is rather large, and peculiarly shaped, being high, long, and narrow, indicating that he has strong social, moral, and intellectual faculties, with but average selfish propensities. His mental temperament is highly developed, with a full degree of the motive, and an average amount of the vital. Consequently he has a very active, intense, susceptible mind—a strong, enduring, healthy constitution, and just vital power enough to carry his plans into execution.

His Amativeness, Adhesiveness, and Inhabitiveness are large, and Philoprogenitiveness very large. All are active, and have their individual and combined influence in perfecting his social enjoyments. Their influence is frequently seen in his poetry. He has energy without cruelty, prudence without cunning or avarice, independence and ambition without arrogance or vanity, and a very high degree of will, perseverance, and determination.

His moral organs, as a class, are large, as seen by the elevation of the head in the cut. They give tone to his mind, elevation to his feelings, and refinement to his thoughts.

His head is not broad in the region of Ideality, Sublimity, Imitation, and Mirthfulness, but unusually high, and the fibres are very long, rather than short and broad, as in the case of Byron, Burns, Moore, Shelley, and Chaucer, and the imagery of his poetry is very different from that of either. As a poet, he may be less ingenious in the construction of sentences, and in rhythm—less extravagant and profuse in expression—but more exalted and full of meaning. His Ideality is manifested more naturally with the moral and intellectual faculties, than with Mirthfulness, Constructiveness, and Destructiveness.

Sublimity is large. He is very fond of contemplating the grand, sublime, extended, eternal, and magnificent, particularly in nature, and in wild and romantic scenery, and is very fond of traveling.

His intellectual faculties are very marked in development; and some of them are among the most prominent traits of his character. Eventuality is full; Individuality, Calculation, Causality, and Locality, are large; while Form, Size, Order, Comparison, and Intuitiveness, or Human Nature, are very large. Memory of events, particularly in his department of business, is good. He naturally excels in figures and mathematics, has a good knowledge of places and the geography of the country, and describes, accurately, the various places which he has visited. He is quick to see the cause and origin of things, and readily comprehends their principles; yet his most prominent intellectual qualities are of a literary character, giving him intuitive and correct perception of form, shape, outline, proportion, arrangement, method, system, ability in the use of language, both as to copiousness and choice of words. These faculties, joined with his very large Comparison, give him superior descriptive talents, ability to classify, compare, and criticise. He is also very quick and correct in his perception of the motives of persons, the condition of things, and the results of actions. His perceptive faculties, joined with his Comparison and Human Nature, give him the rare quality of common sense. He learns much from experience and observation, which enables him to keep pace with the spirit of the times, and aid in promoting the real wants of the community. Form, Size, Comparison, and Language combined, would make him correct in orthography, and in learning, understanding, and applying language. He might excel as a critic. He is not given to theorizing, or speculations on visionary subjects, of his own accord, but prefers the real and available. He is more given to perfecting than originating; is less showy and plausible in theory, but more correct in his inferences and conclusions. He is less original, sparkling, and showy, in wit and conversation, but more truthful, condensed, and correct, both as to manner, matter, and language, than most men.

On the whole we think this a remarkable head. His peculiar poetry, character, talents, and disposition, all coincide with the shape and developments of his brain; which indicate a predominance of affection, sentiment, refinement, and intelligence. He is true to nature, and one of her most sincere devotees.

In Régine Dœring, Gall pointed out the great size of the organ of Destructiveness, and the great deficiency of that of Love of Offspring. Dœring had had several children, of whom she had secretly got rid.

Gall pointed out large Acquisitiveness in an old soldier who was among the prisoners. He had been imprisoned for insubordination, however, not for theft; but on making further inquiry, it was found that he had been punished several times in the regiment for having stolen.

VITAL TEMPERAMENT.

"I find a continual warring in my members, the flesh against the spirit, and the spirit against the flesh; so that when I would do good, evil is present with me."—ST. PAUL.

THE vital temperament greatly predominates in the above cut. The organs of digestion and secretion prevail so much as to crowd upon other vital organs. The mental and motive are active, but their influence on the constitution and character is inferior. He has four ruling faculties of mind—all others merge into them, and are subject to them—Individuality, in the intellect, Benevolence in the moral, Alimentiveness in the selfish, and Amativeness in the social. The three latter, for the most part, have the ascendency, with occasional exceptions, when the moral and intellectual gain the day. His animal passions and sympathies at times gain a complete ascendency over the other faculties. A most thrilling account of his life and character could be given, but want of room forbids it. Trifling with his appetite and affections when young caused him much trouble. Persons with this temperament cannot be too careful when young in forming their habits and selecting their associates.

Contrast this head and temperament with those of Bryant and Powers.

FREEMAN HUNT.

We give the above as a good representation of a favorably balanced organization. With a due exercise of the powers he possesses according to their natural strength, there would be few excesses or deficiencies. The vital temperament has a slight predominance, giving action to the passions and appetites, so that a strong check is necessary. But his motive and mental temperaments are also strong, giving great power of organization, and ability to accomplish whatever he undertakes. He has very strong and active social faculties, and makes many friends because he is so friendly. His energy is equal to any emergency, and he is never idle. He has large Firmness, and is untiring and unyielding in the object of his pursuits. Benevolence is a paramount faculty. It has a very large and active development, and he is notorious for his goodness and kindness. Conscientiousness is another large organ, and integrity, honesty, and uprightness are prominent if not leading characteristics.

His intellectual powers are all prominent, and his talents are both philosophical and scientific. He readily acquires knowledge from external sources, and easily makes himself acquainted with the real condition and quality of things.

His organ of Order is very large; and he is known as one of the most systematic of men, as the appearance of the magazine which he edits and publishes abundantly testifies. His large reasoning faculties, joined with his large perceptives, give him superior judgment, ability to make the most of his knowledge, and to dispose of it to the best advantage.

To sum up, his great power lies, first, in the extraordinary strength combined with the great activity of his organization; and, secondly, in that perfect balance which exists both between his head and body, and also among those phrenological faculties, which give force, moral elevation, and intellectual capacity. His natural powers are every way superior, while all his faculties admirably sustain and beautifully harmonize with all the others.

His head was examined both by my brother and myself, without any knowledge of what the other had said, or of the character of the man. The descriptions were published in the Phrenological Journal for April, 1843

HYDROCEPHALUS.

Large heads are not sure to have large brains or very good ones. Frequently persons congratulate themselves on account of their large brains, as they suppose; and are firm believers in Phrenology, until they are informed that size is not the only criterion of mental power, for some, literally speaking, are sap-heads, particularly if overgrown. There may, however, be much water within the cavity of the skull, and even in the ventricles of the brain, without destroying mental manifestation, or necessarily impairing the brain. A few cases will serve to illustrate this point.

The most remarkable case is the one represented by the following cut, who has suffered from hydrocephalus. He died at Guy's hospital, in London, when nearly thirty years of age. When nineteen, his head measured thirty-three inches in circumference; twenty-four and a half from one ear to the other, and twenty-three and a half from the root of the nose to the nape of the neck. His head after death contained ten pints of water, nine pints lying between the dura mater and the brain, while one pint was contained in the coteral ventricles; the convolutions of the left brain were as usual, a few on the right were unfolded, and the posterior lobes were much distended, but the brain was placed or confined by weight of water to the bottom of the skull; his whole brain weighed two pounds fourteen ounces and a half; he manifested the feelings and intellectual faculties, and could read and write.

Gall and Spurzheim mention a woman whose brain contained four pounds of water, who manifested the common share of understanding. Also, a man of considerable learning whose cerebral cavities contained from three to four pounds. At Copenhagen, a girl whose head measured twenty-five inches in circumference, and nineteen inches from the root of the nose to the neck, and must have contained over eighteen pounds of water, was carried about, and made as much progress at school as ordinary scholars. Another interesting case, whose head was of extraordinary size, is mentioned by Dr. Tobias, of Leipsic, where the person possessed common understanding, and lost it entirely in a fit of passion. The thin external coat of brain was probably ruptured by the unusual excitement, and became embodied with the fluid. Many other instances might be adduced, all showing that in so far as hydrocephalic patients have exhibited the action of the mental faculties, so far have they been in the possession of the cerebrum, unfolded or not unfolded, and no further: and that whenever they have possessed no faculty whatever, the brain has been diluted and death ensued. Spurzheim explains the action of this surplus liquid upon the brain in the following clear manner: "Anatomy shows that the fibres are vertical or perpendicular to the cavities, and that each convolution consists of two layers, but closely allied to each other. If, therefore, water be accumulated in the ventricles so as to act against the convolutions placed around them, it gradually separates the two layers, whose natural position is vertical, and makes them assume a horizontal direction. In this way the convolutions, in large hydrocephalic skulls, are entirely unfolded, and present the smooth surface of a membranous expansion," which were mistaken by some for a second dura mater. So that all the arguments or objections advanced against Phrenology, which are founded upon Hydrocephalus, must vanish. In no case has the brain been entirely obliterated, or its action completely stopped without immediate death being the result.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN.

Benjamin Franklin published an almanac for twenty-five years. In it he said many sensible and witty things. The following are some gleanings, taken from the whole series, one or more from each number, made by the Evening Post. They are owned by John Doggett, Jr., of New York.

Franklin had a large frontal lobe, as well as very large Causality, Comparison, and Mirthfulness, which accounts for many of his remarkable sayings, some of which will be handed down to the latest posterity.

The wonderful popularity of the thoughts of Poor Richard, will be readily comprehended by those who are familiar with the wonderful wisdom, sagacity, and wit, which the author has compressed in his brief and simple sentences. So many years have elapsed since any collection of them has been laid before the American people, that we feel we shall oblige many of our readers by selecting from among them some which have been least hackneyed by quotation.

Take this remark from Richard poor and lame,
Whate'er's begun in anger ends in shame.

Some men grow mad by studying much to know;
But who grows mad by studying good to grow?

If pride leads the van, beggary brings up the rear.

Keep thy shop and thy shop will keep thee.

God heals and the doctors take the fees.

Mary's mouth costs her nothing, for she never opens it but at others' expense.

He that would live at peace and at ease,
Must not speak all he knows, nor judge all he sees.

He that can travel well a foot keeps a good horse.

The worst wheel of the cart makes the most noise.

He that falls in love with himself will have no rivals.

Against diseases here the strongest fence,
Is the defensive virtue, Abstinence.

Tart words make no friends; a spoonful of honey will catch more flies than a gallon of vinegar.

Drive thy business, or it will drive thee.

A mob's a monster; heads enough but no brains.

Nothing humbler than ambition when it is about to climb.

The discontented man finds no easy chair.

When prosperity was well mounted, she let go the bridle, and soon came tumbling out of the saddle.

The master's eye will do more work than both his hands.

A change in fortune hurts a wise man no more than a change in the moon.

He that has a trade has an office of profit and honor.

A false friend and a shadow attend only when the sun shines.

Plough deep while sluggards sleep,
And you will have corn to sell and to keep.

If you would not be forgotten as soon as you are dead and rotten, either write things worth reading or do something worth writing.

Nothing dries sooner than a tear.

Great talkers, little doers.

A rich rogue is like a fat hog,
Who never does good till as dead as a log.

The favor of the great is no inheritance.

Fools make feasts and wise men eat them.

If a man could have half his wishes, he would double his troubles.

If you would keep a secret from an enemy, tell it not to a friend.

Beware of little expenses; a small leak will sink a great ship.

He's a fool that makes his doctor his heir.

Hunger never saw poor food.

FRANKLIN'S PROVERBS.

1. TEMPERANCE.—Eat not to dullness; drink not to elevation.

2. SILENCE.—Speak not but what may benefit others or yourself; avoid trifling conversation.

3. ORDER.—Let all your things have their places; let each part of your business have its time.

4. RESOLUTION.—Resolve to perform what you ought; perform, without fail, what you resolve.

5. FRUGALITY.—Make no expense but to do good to others or yourself; that is, waste nothing.

6. INDUSTRY.—Lose no time; be always employed in something useful; cut off all unnecessary actions.

7. SINCERITY.—Use no hurtful deceit; think innocently and justly; and if you speak, speak accordingly.

8. JUSTICE.—Wrong none by doing injuries, or omitting the benefits that are your duty.

9. MODERATION.—Avoid extremes; forbear resenting injuries so much as you think they deserve.

10. CLEANLINESS.—Tolerate no uncleanliness in body, clothes, or habitation.

11. TRANQUILLITY.—Be not disturbed at trifles, or at accidents common and unavoidable.

12. CHARITY.—Be charitable to all, old or young, rich or poor.

13. HUMANITY.—Imitate Jesus and Socrates.

PHRENOLOGY.

HAIL to that science glorious,
Based on immortal truth,
Which, over earth victorious,
Gains manhood, age, and youth;
Enabling us with pureness
And power all its own,
To read with ease and sureness
Those whom we ne'er have known.

To tell if they are able
To rise to glory's height,
In Senate, at the table,
Or in the daring fight;
If they will heap up treasures,
Or rashly spend their gold;
Indulge in lawless pleasures,
Or walk in virtue bold.

Then all ye villains cower,
To some dark nook alone,
For ANTON with his power
Will make your failings known;
Will tell if you have travel'd
In virtue, love, and light,
Or whether you have revel'd
In darkest deeds of night.

But not alone of others
Does it this power give,
Thus causing men, like brothers,
In fellowship to live;
But each his own proud nature,
His love of right or show,
His mental power and stature
It teaches him to know.

And showing us our weakness,
It shows us how to mend,
And teaches us in meekness
Each other to befriend;
To look with kind indulgence
Each on the other's sin,
And strive for that effulgence
Which makes all bright within.

Then hail that science glorious,
Based on immortal truth,
Long may it reign victorious,
O'er manhood, age, and youth;
Teaching to read with pureness
And power before unknown,
The stranger's heart with sureness,
And to correct our own.

Zoa, Mississippi. S. R. JONES.

THIEVING LANDLORD.

MR. A., practical phrenologist, took board with Mr. B., in the town of C. In examining Mr. B.'s head, Mr. A. found he had too much Acquisitiveness for a well-balanced organization, and consequently kept a sharp eye on his things. He found in a day or two that the books which he had for sale began to disappear, one by one. As fast as they were missing, he kept an account. Suspecting where they had gone, he made a search and found them in the possession of his host. He kept the matter to himself until he was going away, when the landlord presented a full round bill to Mr. A.; whereupon Mr. A. made out a bill, stating that it was for the books in his possession unpaid for. Mr. B., seeing that he was caught, paid for the books, earnestly requesting Mr. A. not to expose him.

HIRAM POWERS, THE SCULPTOR.

I EXAMINED the head of Mr. Powers many years ago, in Cincinnati, and found him to have a large and fully developed brain, with a temperament most favorable for an active, clear, and elevated mind, as seen in the cut, it being a predominance of the mental.

His largest phrenological developments are Comparison, Causality, Ideality, Constructiveness, Imitation, Individuality, Locality, Form, Size, Order, Benevolence, Adhesiveness, Philoprogenitiveness, and Firmness. He has also large Conscientiousness, Cautiousness, Acquisitiveness, Destructiveness, Mirthfulness, and Approbativeness; and consequently we infer that he has great activity, susceptibility, and intensity of mind.

This condition of the brain, joined with large perceptive faculties, Constructiveness and Imitation, as seen in the cut, with large reasoning organs and Ideality, give him superior natural abilities to construct, imitate nature, design, compare, criticise, and beautify. He has a strong and vivid imagination. His head also indicates unusual kindness, sympathy, friendship, love of children, energy, will, perseverance, ambition, and sense of character. According to the size of other organs not mentioned, their influence is not remarkable, although they may be active under favorable circumstances.

The many specimens of his skill, taste, and delineations of nature, and especially his best production, the Greek Slave, have long since stamped him as the genius of America in that line of the arts.

EXAMINATION

OF THE CAST OF A SKULL UNKNOWN, BY O. S. FOWLER.

(Published in the Phrenological Journal of July, 1846.)

"From these engravings the cast of No. 1 will be seen to be round—and of course wide—short, and conical on the top, and therefore governed by the propensities mainly. It is also low, and short superiority. Its leading developments are very large Acquisitiveness, Amativeness, Firmness, Combativeness, and Destructiveness. To this he adds large Secretiveness, Alimentiveness, Veneration, and Marvelousness. His cast of mind was evidently sensual throughout. Conscientiousness and Benevolence were weak, so that there was nothing to stem his powerful current of propensity. Nothing but extra moral training could prevent his being a bad man. If a criminal, he probably robbed, or stole, or obtained money dishonestly; nor would he scruple to commit murder as a means of robbery, or of revenge.

"His intellect was only medium, and the perfect slave of propensity, to gratify which was its main incentive to action. Constructiveness was large. He was artful, cunning, and a thief in the night, as well as very persevering."

The skull from which this cast was taken was left in my office in Pawtucket, R. I., last winter, unbeknown to me, for a public examination. The remarks made were in perfect harmony with the above. The day after, I learned that it was the skull of William Teller, the noted villain, who was executed at Westminster, Conn., in 1832.

Mr. Sizer gave a condensed account of him from Teller's own confession, published in the December number of the American Phrenological Journal for 1846, which I have condensed as follows:

William Teller says he commenced stealing when eight years of age; was imprisoned before he was thirteen for stealing a watch, but escaped four months after; was convicted again for robbing a shop of money, and again sentenced six months to the same penitentiary under another name, but was released at the expiration of his first term with his first name. He then commenced house-stealing in the day-time, and was very adroit; and three months after the last release, he was again committed for stealing under his true name, his former name being William Tyler, by which he managed to get released at the expiration of his former conviction. Thus before he had reached his thirteenth year, he had been convicted three times for felony, and sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment, but of that number had served out only four! Being released, he continued his house-stealing. Scarcely a day passed during which he did not commit some larceny, or pass counterfeit money. At fifteen he was sent to sea, to put him out of the way of temptation. There he was often flogged for theft and turbulence. Returning home, he left the captain by stealing a bundle of his money when carrying it to his house. He then commenced pocket-picking, and entered house and store-breaking in New York, and cities up the North River, and after perpetrating some fifty feats of daring and adroit robberies, was convicted in New York for stealing, and sent for three years to the state prison. There he had a desperate fight to extricate himself, but failed. His sentence expiring, threw him on the world, a perfect villain and desperado, destitute of principle, and regardless of consequences. In 1830, he was convicted for passing counterfeit money in Hartford, Conn., and sentenced to fifteen years hard labor in the Connecticut state prison. In 1833 he made false keys under the very eye of the overseers—having large Constructiveness and Secretiveness—unlocked his own cell, and those of several other prisoners; and then in an effort to disable the keeper who was on guard, he gave the fatal blow for which he was executed. His skull can be seen at our office.

In 1835, while practicing Phrenology in Louisville, Ky., Dr. J. R. Buchanan, then associated with me, visited the workhouse of that city, and while examining the head of a man, said to him, "You have very large Alimentiveness, Acquisitiveness, and Combativeness. You are prone to steal things to eat or drink, and would not mind fighting for your prey rather than to lose it." The doctor was afterward informed that he was confined for stealing a woman's hams out of the smoke-house. She, on hearing him, went out to defend her hams; he turned and fought her until he conquered, then caught the hams and ran.

Physiology and Phrenology are now introduced into many primary schools throughout the country, particularly in New England. We have had orders for Mrs. Fowler's text-books for schools from England, to be introduced there.

LOUIS NAPOLEON, PRESIDENT OF FRANCE.

We have no means of knowing the character of this man except from public prints and the likenesses before us. He has a well-balanced and strongly marked temperament; all his features are bold and round, indicating strength and durability, but not brilliancy, show, or display. Minds with such a temperament do not mature early, nor develop themselves without strong motives, requiring an effort. He is long-lived, and has a healthy constitution. His head indicates conservativeness, practical judgment, and a well-balanced mind, with hardly points enough about it to lead to extremes of action. The most remarkable point of interest in the man at present is, that he is the first President of the new republic of France because his name is Napoleon; but if his abilities are correctly represented in the above cut, time will prove him master of his office, and the confidence of the people.

COL. DANIEL BOONE.

The cast of his head is of more than ordinary size, and indicates a large, enduring frame, with a strongly marked temperament. The basilar and occipital regions are large; consequently, I infer that he possessed great energy and force of character, strength of feeling and passion; was very courageous, and fond of the hardships of life. These qualities, joined with his very large Firmness, produce a great amount of mental power, resolution, fortitude, determination, will, and unsurpassed presence of mind in times of danger. Few heads exhibit more of the faculty of Firmness as well sustained by the propensities. Philoprogenitiveness and Adhesiveness are large and apparently active. Approbativeness is also prominent, and ambition must have been a predominant trait of his character. Secretiveness and Cautiousness were large, giving great tact, forethought, management, adroitness, reserve when necessary, and ability to cope with the cunning and evasive. Ideality, Sublimity, and Mirthfulness are large; which made him very fond of the grand, sublime, terrific, and extended in nature; he should have been full of fun, good in repartees, and could be very sarcastic. Self-Esteem was moderate, which made him more familiar than dignified, distant, or haughty.

The perceptive intellect was large, and the reasoning faculties full; hence he was a great observer, a matter-of-fact man, remarkable for his practical judgment, had a good mechanical eye, was an excellent marksman, and had good descriptive talents.

Locality was large; giving excellent memory of place, judgment of the points of compass, and his desire to travel must have been very great. He had more ability to think and reason than to originate and elucidate principles.

Size, Locality, Individuality, and Weight were particularly large, as seen in the portrait.

His moral organs were not as fully developed as the other faculties, and probably his prominent traits of character did not arise from that source.

Benevolence was rather defective; his sympathy for others could not have been great; he may have been honest, but his head indicates more honor than generosity. Acquisitiveness is also moderately developed in the cast. His desire for gain was not sufficiently strong for a well-balanced mind, so that his selfishness did not produce his want of benevolence. If we compare the cut of his skull with that of others, we shall perceive that it is remarkable in shape, and just adapted to his manners and customs of life. He was distinguished as a discoverer, adventurer, traveler in the vast wilderness and a hunter, was celebrated as a marksman, and preferred to live away from civilized society in the retirement of the forest glen. To him Kentucky is greatly indebted as a pioneer, settler, and defender of the frontiers from the Indians.

The cast of his head can be seen in our office, and the excellent likeness of him was taken from the National Portrait Gallery.

The editor of the Chronotype utters the following opinion on smoking and smokers:

"A man who smokes is a fool—because he parts with his money for mere smoke—because he is made no fatter, richer, or wiser by it—because for every ounce of pleasure derived from it, he has to pay an ounce of pain, with interest—because he cannot stop the practice when he is sick of it—because he makes himself a nuisance to persons of cleanliness and taste."

RICHARD DUNPHY.

We copy the following from the Courier and Enquirer. We have spoken frequently of young Dunphy, who is one of the most promising artists in this country:

Some months since we mentioned the extraordinary talents for sculpture exhibited by a young lad named Richard Dunphy, who took two medals for works exhibited at the Fair of the American Institute, before he had received the slightest instruction in the art. He has since made several busts of gentlemen in the city, and among them one of Col. Webb, which strikes us as a most admirable likeness, and as affording renewed and still stronger evidence of talents which, if properly cultivated, cannot fail to give the young sculptor a distinguished rank among the artists of his country. It is an admirable piece of work, and would do no discredit to the oldest and most eminent of our sculptors.

His first effort, and the work by which his genius was first discovered, was the cutting from alabaster with his penknife a statue of Dr. Franklin; and this was done when he was a mere boy. He has since cut a number of cameos, and made seven busts; and is now, we understand, under the instruction of the distinguished American sculptor, Mr. H. K. Brown, who will not fail, we trust, to educate and develop his talents in the way best calculated to enable him to reach that degree of distinction for which he seems to have been destined.—N. Y. Express.

I have examined the head of young Dunphy, and find, as seen in the cut taken from a bust in our office, that Constructiveness is the largest organ in his head. I have seldom, if ever, seen it larger, which, joined with his large Imitation, and very large perceptive faculties, give him unusual versatility of talent, accuracy, readiness, and ability as an artist. With such a combination of faculties as his head indicates, he could hardly fail of being eminently successful in the business he has chosen, or any kind of mechanism requiring ingenuity, imitation, perceptive intellect, and comparison. He also has a superior talent to perfect what he does, and improve upon the work of others. He might excel in making musical instruments, if not in performing music. His talents are practical rather than theoretical, and his work will be true to nature, and useful rather than imaginative. His head, in other respects, is no way remarkable, excepting that he has strong will, energy, and ambition, with comparatively weak Self-Esteem, Veneration, and Spirituality.

So far as his character has been manifested, it is in harmony with the developments of his brain, which adds another fact in favor of Phrenology.

IMPERFECT SPECIMENS OF HUMANITY.

From the "Rationale of Crime."

E. S.

D. R.

E. S. is a lad about seven years of age, at the Long Island Farms. He is noted among his companions as a mischievous, stubborn, uncontrollable boy. He is exceedingly impulsive; very difficult to manage, and constantly inclined to vicious and cruel deeds.

The organization shows great development of propensity, with very deficient moral faculties, and moderate intellect.

D. R. is the portrait of an idiotic boy in the Farm School, Long Island. He is very imperfect in his physical developments and also in mental capacity; being utterly incapable of receiving instruction of any kind. The size of his brain, it will be seen, is exceedingly small, and its proportions very low. Nearly the whole development belongs to the animal faculties.

J. B.

J. B. is an inmate of the Penitentiary on Blackwell's Island. He is reported on the books as early as 1839. His offence on that occasion does not appear. Early in 1843, he was returned to the prison on three indictments, one for assault and battery, and the other two for petit larceny. He was sentenced to six months on each. His first term had but just expired when he escaped, made a voyage to the East Indies, and in 1845 was returned on another indictment for petit larceny, under a sentence of six months. Before this sentence expired, he effected another escape, but was soon retaken.

His disposition is exceedingly determined; he is shrewd and cunning, and withal remarkably ingenious. He is exceedingly impatient, and chafes very much under confinement; is quarrelsome and much given to fighting.

The head is high in the region of Self-Esteem and Firmness, indicating a strong sense of personal independence and love of freedom. This is one of the first facts that would strike a phrenologist; and it is remarkably verified by his frequent escapes and long voyage. Combativeness is largely developed, and although the head is tolerably high, as a whole, yet the moral region is very defective, there being but a very scanty development above Cautiousness and Causality.

FABLE.

The sword of the warrior was taken down to brighten; it had not been long out of use. The rust was soon rubbed off, but there were spots that would not go—they were of blood. It was on the table near his secretary. The pen took advantage of the first breath of air to move a little further off.

"Thou art right," said the sword, "I am a bad neighbor."

"I fear thee not," said the pen, "I am more powerful than thou art; but I love not thy society."

"I exterminate," said the sword.

"And I perpetuate," answered the pen; "where were thy victories if I recorded them not? Even where thou thyself shalt be one day—in oblivion."

MRS. MARY RUNKLE.

The reader will perceive that this is a remarkable head in shape. A Daguerreotype was taken with great care by Professor Davies, of Utica, showing the hair wet and smoothed down, so that we have the exact shape of the head. The temperament is most uninviting for a woman, the motive or bilious being greatly predominant. There is not enough of the vital to give ease, smoothness, pliability, or warmth; nor enough of the mental to favor refinement, delicacy, or a high degree of intellectuality.

Acquisitiveness, Destructiveness, Secretiveness, Cautiousness, Self-Esteem, and Firmness were very large, and the predominant organs of the head. They had a controlling influence in the character. The moral sentiments were very weak, particularly Benevolence, as seen in the cut. Having extreme developments, she was prepared for extreme actions and mental manifestations in times of excitement or temptation.

Suspicions rested on her for several years before her last crime. A peddler, who had considerable money, and valuable dry goods, etc., was last seen and heard of at her house, where he stopped over night. After that some of her children were telling some of the neighbors how many new dresses they had or were going to have. Not long after that two of her children were found drowned in a tub of water, heads downward. But nothing was proved against her until she moved to Utica, where she was tried, convicted, and executed for the murder of her husband. He had some property, but was gradually drawing on the principal for his support, to which, we may suppose, she thought she had a better right; and in her struggle to kill him, she fell upon him, and choked him to death by the gripe of her hand. All the evidence gained on this subject goes to sustain this view of the subject. The testimony was all circumstantial, except that of her daughter, which was not admitted.

Young men and young women, look well to the developments of the brain, as well as other things, if you wish to live happy in your marriage relations.

DOUBLE TEST EXAMINATIONS.

That Phrenology is so nearly an "exact science" as to answer all practical purposes; that it proves true to itself, and that phrenologists go by rule in measuring mentality, is illustrated by the following double test examination made by our friends P. L. Buell and N. Sizer, each in the absence of the other. The subject was W. A., of P., Vt.

By P. L. Buell: This man is coarse and vulgar in conversation, harsh, rough, and quarrelsome in conduct; cares nothing for the opinions of others; has no respect for God or man; is a glutton; always cheerful; fond of lascivious jokes; cruel, weak-minded, stubborn, and proud.

By N. Sizer: This man is proud, vindictive, overbearing, [illegible], insolent, reckless of character, blasphemous, destitute of friendship and honesty, vulgar, coarse, obscene, profligate of property, licentious, and deadly.

The graphic correctness of the descriptions was acknowledged by the subject himself, and approved by the audience by general acclamation.

While in Springfield, a few months since, Mr. Colburn introduced himself to me, saying that I examined his head in 1838, in Lowell, and advised him to get an education, and be a professional man, for he had the right kind of talents for it, and would make a good speaker. He said he took my advice, left his machine-shop that day, went to studying, and had now been preaching several years with success; and should ever remember with the deepest gratitude the advice I gave him on that occasion, for it had been of very great service to him. Said he, "I am indebted to Phrenology for my present position in society." Many facts of a similar nature might be mentioned.

Punctuality in Business.—Method is the very hinge of business. There can be no method without punctuality. It is also important because it subserves the peace and good temper of a family; the want of it not only infringes on necessary duty, but sometimes excludes this duty. The calmness of mind which it produces is another advantage of punctuality. A disorderly man is always in a hurry; he has no time to speak to you, because he was going elsewhere. And when he gets there he was too late for his business, or he must hurry away before he finishes it.

Punctuality gives weight to character. "Such a man has made an appointment; then I know he will keep it." And this generates punctuality in you; for like other virtues, it propagates itself. Servants and children must be punctual where their leader is so. Appointments, indeed, become debts. I owe you punctuality, if I have made an appointment with you; and I have no right to throw away your time if I do my own.—Merchant's Magazine.

MRS. MARGARET PRIOR.

By contrasting this cut with that of the murderess, you will find a great difference. Mrs. Prior was distinguished for her real kindness, energy, wisdom in the practical, common sense matters of life, and excellent judgment and capacity to advise. Few persons ever made their lives more useful to others than did Mrs. Prior during her residence in New York, as will be evinced to all who read "Walks of Usefulness," or "Reminiscences of Mrs. Margaret Prior." Her whole energies were expended in relieving distress, and she might have been oftenest found where no other person could have been persuaded to go, on account of the surrounding filthiness and abhorrent circumstances, doing what she could to assuage the pangs of suffering humanity.

We might give any amount of facts illustrative of her perfection of character, did space permit; but if we should commence, we should not know where to stop, they were so numerous, as many, still living, daily testify.

Thus we see that her character corresponds with her phrenological developments. Notice her full and expanded frontal lobe, also the height of her head, indicating an elevated tone of mind and feeling; and we may well conclude her to be fully qualified for the station to which she was appointed by the Moral Reform and Guardian Society, as City Visitor.

PHINEAS STEVENS, ENGINEER.

MOTIVE OR BILIOUS TEMPERAMENT.

This is a most marked organization, both mentally and physically. His temperament indicates unusual ability to labor, endure, and accomplish. He is very tough, strong, and thorough, and prepared for the roughest and most responsible kind of labor. His physiognomy is as marked as his physiology and phrenology, indicating development as well as activity of mind. His head is large, broad at the base, and high in Firmness and in the intellectual lobe; from which we infer, that he is very energetic, forcible, firm, persevering, determined, ambitious, original, clear-headed, and ingenious, great at designing, planning, and originating, with the rare ability to see results from the beginning. Such men seldom if ever fail in their undertakings, and they are always ready to take hold of what others have failed to accomplish. They are the master-spirits in community; they both begin and finish; fight their own battles, and then turn in and help their neighbors. They take the lead and responsibility, oversee and employ others, but are not so polite, easy, graceful, dignified, or respectful, but thoroughly democratic in all their movements. Mr. S. lives in Nashua, N. H. His original trade was a mill-wright, but for several years past has been employed in various parts of New England to build mills, factories, dams, railways, canals, in fact, to do all, from laying out the ground and laying the foundation, to putting on the top stone of the most important, costly, and complicated buildings in the country. One of the last specimens of his genius, originality, and strength of intellect, was the building of the Lawrence Mills, at Lawrence, Mass., a work that will do credit to any man in any age. He is noted throughout New England for his energy, perseverance, will, originality, and ingenuity. Many extraordinary facts might be mentioned of his superior ability in the above-mentioned qualities.

PHRENOLOGICAL CONVENTION.

The time has arrived for concentrated action on this subject. Heretofore the responsibilities of phrenological science have rested on a few individuals. Now it will receive the co-operation of many mighty minds, selected for that purpose. A convention was called, and met anniversary week at Clinton Hall, May 10th, 1849; at which time an American Phrenological Society was formed, and a committee was chosen to draft a constitution and make a report, to be presented at a future time.

Enthusiastic speeches were made by several gentlemen present. The subjects touched upon were the dignity, importance, and utility of the science; the labors, duties, and influence of a phrenological society; the reasons why we need a society, and the advantages connected with its formation; also Phrenology as a system of mental philosophy, compared with other systems, and with Christianity. The day will long be remembered by all lovers of the science who were present. It was distinctly understood that human reform must have its foundation in the nature of man, as explained by Phrenology; and that this convention and society were but stepping-stones to anniversaries which would rank equal to any in the nation.

Some of the objects proposed to be accomplished by the society, are a weekly paper, an extensive addition to our cabinet of busts, skulls, paintings, and statuary, with suitable buildings for exhibition, a lecture room connected with it, to be used for all scientific purposes, and to establish an institution whereby persons may qualify themselves to teach, lecture, and examine, besides many other minor considerations which will be developed in the constitution and report. A new impetus will now be given to the science, and its influence and character will be extended and elevated.

For a full account of this convention, see the American Phrenological Journal for June, 1849.

"What is Hydropathy?" The adaptation of water, air, diet, and exercise to the cure of disease. Who would not practice Hydropathy, or the Water-Cure? No sensible individual will fail to inform himself on this subject. See Water-Cure Journal, in which this system is fully explained.

GOOD THOUGHTS.

"Laugh and grow fat," is an old adage, and Sterne tells us that every time a man laughs he adds something to his life. An eccentric philosopher of the last century used to say that he liked not only to laugh himself, but to see laughter and hear laughter. Laughter is good for health; it is a provocative to the appetite, and a friend to digestion. Dr. Sydenham said the arrival of a merry-andrew in a town was more beneficial to the health of the inhabitants than twenty asses loaded with medicine.

Some young ladies, feeling aggrieved by the severity with which their friends speculated on their gay plumes, necklaces, rings, flounces, etc., went to their pastor to learn his opinion. "Do you think," said they, "there can be any impropriety in our wearing these things?" "By no means," was the prompt reply; "when the heart is full of ridiculous notions, it is perfectly proper to hang out the sign."

We never knew a scolding person that was able to govern a family. What makes people scold? Because they cannot govern themselves. How, then, can they govern others? Those who are generally calm are prompt and resolute, but steady and mild.

"There is no harm," says the Rev. Mr. Montgomery, "in smoking tobacco, except that it leads to drinking—drinking to intoxication,—intoxication to bile—bile to indigestion—indigestion to consumption—consumption to death. That is all."

A skeptical young man, one day, conversing with the celebrated Dr. Parr, observed that he would believe nothing which he could not understand. "Then, young man, your creed will be the shortest of any man's I know."

A modern writer says that the dog has been the companion of man for more than five thousand years, and has learned but one of his vices, and that is to worry his species when in distress.

It is said that the women of Peru, while angry, never nurse their children, for fear of choleric temperament. Do not the women of Peru understand one principle in life's philosophy?

"Tell your father," said John Randolph to a young friend, "that I recommend abstinence from novel reading and whiskey punch. Depend upon it, sir, they are both equally injurious to the brain."

Two men making love to the daughter of Themistocles, he preferred the virtuous man before the rich one, saying: "I would rather have a man without riches, than riches without a man."

The editor of a newspaper at Perth being challenged, coolly replied that any fool might give a challenge, but that two fools were needed for a fight.

To practice sincerity is to speak as we think, to do as we profess, to perform what we promise, and really to be what we would seem to be.

Dr. Fuller said, "An ounce of mirth, with the same degree of grace, will serve God further than a pound of sadness."

It is a common absurdity, to drink rum when water is so much cheaper, and more healthy.

No man knows what he can do till he has fully resolved to do what he can.

A word spoken pleasantly is a large spot of sunshine on a sad heart.

He who declares all men knaves, convicts at least one.

THE UTILITY AND IMPORTANCE OF PHRENOLOGY.

To Know Ourselves is a matter of the greatest importance, and there is no other means by which we can acquire this knowledge so well as by the aid of Phrenology. It teaches us for what occupation in life we are by nature best qualified, and in what pursuit we may be most successful.

It is of the utmost importance to Parents and Teachers, as it will unfold the true capacities and dispositions of their children and pupils, and thus enable them the more successfully to govern and instruct them.

It will enable the Physician to understand the causes of Insanity, and greatly assist him in restoring his patient.

It will aid Manufacturers in selecting Apprentices best adapted to particular occupations, Merchants in selecting confidential Clerks, Shipmasters in selecting crews, and, what is of still more importance, will guide us correctly in selecting Congenial Companions for Life, and enable us to adapt ourselves to each other, when a difference in disposition exists.

It is a Powerful Lever in Self-Improvement, in Moral and Intellectual advancement.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL CABINET, OR MUSEUM,

IN CLINTON HALL, 129 AND 131 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK,

Contains Busts and Casts from the heads of the most distinguished men that ever lived; also Skulls, both human and animal, from all quarters of the globe—including Egyptian Mummies, Pirates, Robbers, Murderers, and Thieves; also numerous Paintings and Drawings of Celebrated individuals, living and dead; and is always Free to visitors, by whom it is continually thronged.

PROFESSIONAL EXAMINATIONS,

With written and verbal descriptions of character, given, when desired; including directions as to the most suitable occupations, the selection of suitable partners in business, congenial companions for life, etc., etc., which will be found most valuable, as well as exceedingly interesting.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL BUST,

Approved by Fowlers and Wells, designed especially for learners, showing the exact location of all the Organs of the Brain, fully developed, which will enable every one to study the science without an instructor—the most simple and yet the most perfect ever invented—may be packed and sent with safety, by express, or as freight (not by mail), to any part of the globe. Price, including box for packing, only $1 25.

PHRENOLOGICAL PUBLICATIONS.

Books relating to Phrenology, Physiology, Physiognomy, and Magnetism, also on all the Natural Sciences, can be obtained at the Phrenological Cabinet. The demand for this class of publications has very greatly increased during the last few years. A complete Catalogue may be had of the publishers, on application, either by mail or otherwise. These works are now sold by Agents in many parts of our country. Every family should be supplied with a complete set, which may be obtained at a small price, by mail or express.

THE AMERICAN PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL.

This is a monthly publication, containing thirty-two large octavo pages, on good type and paper, illustrated with the portraits of many distinguished individuals. This Journal has obtained a wide reputation. It has been regularly published for ten years, and has a circulation of over twenty thousand. Read the following

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

This work is ultimately destined to produce a much desired reform in our modes of living.—N. Y. Tribune.

No mother who is rearing a family should be without this valuable work. It is exceedingly cheap at $1 a year.—N. E. Cataract.

It occupies a place which is filled by no other work, and has acquired a reputation which nothing but real worth can secure; and what is more important, its articles are perfectly ADAPTED to the WANTS OF SOCIETY.—Primitive Expounder.

It is one of the ablest and most interesting works ever published.—St. Mary's Sentinel.

Each number of this monthly contains portraits of distinguished persons, illustrative of their phrenological developments.—Kingston Democratic Journal.

The high reputation of the editors, as practical phrenologists, offers a sufficient guaranty that the subjects treated are handled in a skilful manner.—Alton Telegraph.

It is filled with interesting and valuable matter, and is a sterling work.—W. L. Messenger.

The above are but a few of the favorable notices which we are daily receiving from all parts of the country, and we are happy to feel that our labors are appreciated.

THE WATER-CURE JOURNAL AND HERALD OF REFORMS:

Devoted to Hydropathy. Published monthly. Terms One Dollar a year, in advance. This is emphatically a Journal of Health, and should be in the possession of every individual who values Life, Health and happiness. Please address, POST PAID,
